Writer Predicts Final Settlement to Be Made at An Early Date.

GUGSA SURRENDERS

Ethiopian Leader Offers To Fight For Italy.

By FLOYD GIBBONS

ASMARA, Eritrea, Oct. 12.—Ras Haile Selassie Gussa has not only surrendered his domain and 12,000 fighting men to Mussolini, but has offered to fight for Italy against the Ethiopian emperor.

A tall, thin, wiry, fuzzy-haired man with an Ethiopian adaptation of a European khaki military uniform, wearing a sun helmet instead of the native headdress, Ras Gussa stepped from an Italian military car at general headquarters here today, respectfully returned the salute of General Emilio De Bono and his staff officers, and chatted with the newspaper correspondents.

Offers to Fight

He said he was willing to reorganize his Ethiopian forces under Italian direction and drive southwards with the Italian penetration and, if necessary, engage in battle with any loyal Ethiopian forces encountered.

Indications here are that Emperor Haile Selassie's control over his distant provinces and provincial chiefs is nominal, and there are quite likely to be more desertions from the standard of the King of Kings.

Maybe his wish is father to the thought, but it begins to look to me like peace is here, and the final settlement of the Ethiopian tangle will be argued around the international table, with Mussolini slicing the bird and serving the portions.

MINISTER REMAINS

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 12.—A serious serio-comic conflict broke out today between Count Luigi Vinciguerra, the Italian minister, and the Ethiopian government when, rejecting the expulsion order issued by Emperor Haile Selassie, Count Vinciguerra failed to take the famous "very last train" for Djibouti.

The entire diplomatic corps, the British, French, German, Belgian, and American ministers, all in their full regalia with native Asakari escorts, appeared at the station together with several hundred other white folk to see Count Vinciguerra.

But Count Vinciguerra stayed at home.

FLAMES HIT OHIO PATROL

$20,000 Lost as Cambridge Station of Highway Patrol is Burned

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 12.—A devastating fire of unknown origin early today swept the district headquarters of the state highway patrol and radio station here causing an estimated loss of approximately $20,000.

The two-story W. E. Bonar residence, in which the headquarters was located, was almost a total loss, the highway patrol reported. Flames started in the basement and gained rapid headway.

A small portion of the $10,000 radio equipment was saved by patrolmen. Practically all of the furnishings in the house were destroyed.

When the roof collapsed, four firemen narrowly escaped being trapped. Patrolman Bushong suffered a head cut when struck by debris.

$92 TAKEN FROM BAKERY BILLFOLD

Efforts are being made to learn the identity of the person who, Friday afternoon, took $92 belonging to the W. E. Wallace bakery.

The person picked up a billfold, stepped into the stairway leading to Dr. O. J. Towers' office and took out the money. He or she dropped the billfold, still containing a number of checks, on the steps.

Harold Beery, E. Franklin, was taking a deposit to the Third National bank a little after 2 p. m. and was carrying the billfold with a bag of silver under his raincoat. When he arrived at the bank he found the billfold missing and immediately started back down the street. The person who found the money must have seen young Beery drop it, picked it up and removed the money at once making a getaway.

WHY SANCTIONS MAY NOT WORK

Economic sanctions against Italy, voted by the League of Nations, may not mean so much. Both Austria and Hungary voted against such sanctions and Germany does not belong to the league. Thus these countries may continue dealing with Italy, exchanging trade. Germany has a through route, via Austria, untouched by countries invoking sanctions.

DAVEY 'CRACK' AT GRID TEAM IS DISCOUNTED

Griffith Sees No Conference Rule Against Athletes Working

PRACTICE APPROVED

Believe Statement Result of "Warfare".

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12.—Ohio State university officials, disconcerted by Gov. Martin L. Davey's dramatic charge that "we have most of the football squad on the state payroll," indicated today they have no objection to the athletes keeping their jobs.

Athletic Director L. W. St. John refuted the governor's claim that "most" of the squad works for the state government when not attending classes or practicing on the gridiron. Of the 35 squad members, he said 13 have part-time jobs with the state. Eight, however, are varsity squad men.

Their Wages Vary

Their wages range from 40 cents an hour for operating elevators in the state office building to $50 a month for part-time work in the highway department.

The athletes, their coaches, rooters and employers alike were heartened by word from Maj. John L. Griffith, "Big Ten" commissioner in Chicago, that there is no conference rule against athletes working for pay.

"It is assumed," the major added, "that the athletes referred to (by Davey) performed work in exchange for their wages or salaries."

And the fans here assumed that O. S. U. athletic officials were far too astute to risk permitting important cogs in their most highly-touted football team in years to accept pay except in return for labor. To do so would lay themselves open to having a possible championship team dissolved in mid-season by ineligibility rulings.

While grid fans outside of Ohio wondered why such charge should issue from the governor of a state whose name the university bears, those living here knew it resulted from animosity between Davey and O. S. U. officials, growing out of his $1,266,000 slash in the institution's 1935-36 appropriation.

Result of Warfare

For weeks the state has witnessed desultory warfare between the executive and the university president, Dr. George W. Rightmire. Davey told Rightmire if he couldn't run the school on the residual appropriation he should step out and make way for someone who could, while the president continued on page six.

BELIEVE CHICAGO'S MILK STRIKE ENDED

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The milk strike which has raged through the great Chicago milk shed for the past two weeks was believed near a settlement today, though distributors denied they were negotiating with the strikers.

HOUSE GROUP IN DEADLOCK

Finance Committee Recesses Until Tuesday; "Star Chamber" Held

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12.—Torn by disagreement over the extent of budget increases in a revised biennial appropriations bill, the House finance committee today recessed until next Tuesday.

At that time the cumbersome committee of 23 members will again endeavor to reach an accord so the full house membership can be called back to pass the revised revenue bill.

Governor Davey is insisting that increases over the original appropriations bill as it stood after he had slashed away $8,800,000 by executive vetoes, shall not exceed $500,000.

Three independent sections of the large financial committee were reported to have arrived at what each considered minimum increases and the combined total was in the neighborhood of $750,000, far in excess of the arbitrary figure fixed by the governor.

With the committee far from an accord, Chairman Julian Schweller (D) Fort Jennings, contrary to house rules, held a "star chamber" session, excluding everyone but committee members. His excuse was that such action was necessary for his group to concentrate on the problem at hand.

GERMANY FREE FROM LEAGUE

Over Million Paid By Reich; May Aid Italians, League is Informed

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—Germany today completely washed her hands of all dealings with the League of Nations when the Reich paid a long standing debt of 5,000,000 gold francs ($1,630,000), leaving Germany free to deal with Italy in any way Chancellor Hitler and his ministers wish.

Germany will now be able to leave the League on Oct. 21, when her two-year notice of withdrawal expires, without any strings and under no obligations to join in the sanctions that other nations are now drawing tighter around Italy.

Action of Germany threw a new element of doubt into her future stand as the league's war "general staff" rushed new economic and financial measures to add to the arms embargo imposed yesterday on Italy.

MUSSOLINI'S SON-IN-LAW

could arrange an interview for you with Mussolini. Through him and through him alone you saw Il Duce.

Count Ciano was not an easy man to reach. He was extraordinarily busy. In the palatial government palace on Via Vittorio Benito he had surrounded himself with numerous secretaries. They were handsome young Italians with Riviera manners and an Oxonian English accent, nearly all of them holders of titled names. It was almost as difficult to see Count Ciano as to see his famed father-in-law.

Youthful in Appearance
When finally my credentials had been examined and re-examined I was ushered into his office. I found a dark-eyed, dark-haired boy sitting behind a desk. I was astonished. This the redoubtable Count Ciano? ... Perhaps another secretary? ... He stood and his hand went out in the Fascist salute.

"Count Ciano?" I asked doubtfully.

He smiled pleasantly. "Yes," he said. "Went you sit down?"

It took only a moment to dispel the illusion. Count Ciano moves swiftly. Dispatch is marked in every gesture. There is determination in the firm jaw, and the straight mouth betrays the boyish complexion and roundness of face. He leaned back in his seat, his fingers toying with a letter opener, his black eyes quick and direct upon me.

He asked the usual, courteous questions, where I had been and what I had seen. But even as he asked one felt his mind running far ahead, probing and pursuing. This was child's play and he had little time for it.

Ever-Present Portrait

On the wall behind him hung a large autographed portrait of Mussolini. Il Duce of the hypnotic eye, the outthrust jaw. From the young man sitting below one felt the same nervous, impatient energy. One felt he was like a coiled spring—something waiting and electric in the vitality which literally emanated from him.

Ah, yes, Premier Mussolini. He was sorry, but His Excellency was in the north of Italy, observing flying maneuvers. Was there anything else that could be done? A quick, catlike reach for a pencil; a swift, jolting down of name, address, notes; a rise, a rapid salute, a bow—and the interview ended.

I opened the door and before it was closed behind me it was opened again. A man hurried in by a shaft of letters. While I waited for the elevator I watched the door open and close, open and close. My last impression was a thick-carpeted room, a portrait of Mussolini, powerful and silent, below it the deft, sure, quick movements of a soft-faced boy.

It is not difficult to visualize those same, sure movements to-night and all the remainder of the nights as Count Ciano roars with his "desperate" bombing squadrons over Ethiopia. It is not difficult to visualize that same quickness of thought and rapidity of action when young Count Ciano, flying his squadron out of the dawn felt bullets thudding against his plane; turned and determined swiftly from what direction they came; and as swiftly, with a catlike movement, gave the command to fire. It is said that 1,700 Ethiopian—men, women and children—perished from the Italian bombing on that score.

The movement of that command to fire may rank in historic significance with a fateful movement 21 years earlier, in turreted Sarajevo, when the signal to shoot flickered from the impassioned brain of young Gabriel Prinzip to his waiting, trembling trigger finger.

And a war began into which a world tumbled.

What Price Power?

Are we a civilized people? Or are we merely slaves who will bend our backs to the whip of the master?

"Caesar was a noble man," spake Brutus, but the day of Brutus has passed just as Jupiter has passed and been replaced by a more powerful being in this modern world.

Caesar Benito Mussolini in his zeal for world power seeks to make himself a God. Greed, hatred and the inventions of the Evil One are his stock in trade.

Has he a heart to feel for those whose homes he will destroy, whose children he will make orphans? Can he power stop him in his greed for other lands to conquer? If he conquers Ethiopia, will that suffice? No, he will be another Alexander looking for more worlds to conquer.

Jesus, who came to teach us how to live by faith, by truth, by love and by humility can only sorrow at seeing how one of his creatures can defy every idea of good to the majority, for the sake of world power.

Mussolini is a man who is defying all laws of human relations to gain his end heedless of the physical, mental and emotional pain inflicted upon his fellowmen.

Cannot we who have been reared in a land of equal rights, liberty of speech, freedom in religion, in some way help a country which is being invaded in such a brutal way?

The United States, which has always been a friend in need to our weaker brothers, has only to withhold arms, ammunition, food, clothing, and other needs from belligerent nations; in other words, tend to her own business. By such a procedure not only will our country be spared another disastrous war, but our example will help to bring peace.

student opinion

Question: What do you think of the public address system at the football games?

Medreth Bach, freshman: For people who do not know much about football it is a good thing. The announcer knows all the answers; where the ball is, what the score is, who's hurt and many other things that an ordinary observer does not know.

Caroline Michaels, sophomore: In a school this small I think it unnecessary.

Everyone can see on a field of this size and the energy and expense could be used for better things; such as bleachers for spectators.

Dick Mills, junior: Local people who are not familiar with the players and strangers do not know who is going in and coming out; who is carrying the ball; who made the tackle; who intercepted the pass.

The announcer at the "mike" can tell them all these things.

Blen Stevenson, junior: Personally I don't like it. I have a physical grievance against it, because I received a shock from it at the rainy game the other week.

Mary Hall, senior: Sometime the spectators at a game jump around so in their enthusiasm that persons standing behind are prevented from seeing; but with a public address system one can hear what's happening even though one can't see it.

GIRL RESERVES INITIATE EIGHT

Eight girls became members of the Senior Girl Reserves at the initiation held Wednesday evening.

These people included Dorothy Jenkins, Mary Mavis, Jean Moffitt, Doris Mossberger, Thelma Piper and Edna Shaw, seniors; Harriet McGath and Mary Catherine Trump, juniors.

An average grade of 80 or above for the preceding year is required in order to become a member of the Girl Reserves. Other requirements are a willingness to work and an interest in the club.

The formal initiation came first and then the dinner was served. The girls on the food committees were Wahitta Barnhart, Ruby Chaffin, Jane Drum and Alice Griner.

The informal initiation followed. This created much fun and laughter for everyone.

Members of the initiating committee included Jean Cryder, Faye Elliott, Jane Littleton and Mary Ann Sapp.

Miss Rains and Miss Watson are advisor and assistant, respectively, for the Girl Reserves.

SHANER SPEAKS IN ASSEMBLY

As a part of the week's program celebrating Fire Prevention week, L. T. Shaner, safety director, at Friday's assembly gave some valuable advice on this important subject.

On Friday also Mr. Watt's general science classes visited the Fire Department.

Talmer Wise, Fire Chief, answered questions submitted to him by the members of the science classes. These questions were prepared by the pupils earlier in the week and deposited in a box in the classroom.

Sheets with directions for fire drills were passed out to the student body Thursday afternoon.

It is hoped that these precautions will be of value in preventing fires.

RED AND BLACK JOINS EXCHANGE

Ten Ohio colleges and high schools compose the student exchange publication of the journalism class this year.

Ohio State, Ohio University, Ohio Wesleyan, and Wooster constitute the universities while Ash-tabula high, Chillicothe high, Columbus South, Lancaster high, McArthur high, and Willis high make up the other units on the Red and Black exchange list.

More universities and high schools are to be added to this list later in the school term.

The papers received by the class are studied by the journalism department, after which they are placed in the library where they are available to the student body.

William Ammer is acting in the capacity of exchange editor.

NO SENIOR BOOTH AT PUMPKIN SHOW

The Seniors, when they convened Monday, October 7, decided not to have a booth at the Pumpkin show.

At this meeting, over which Miss Mattinson and Mr. Reger presided, many points concerning the cost of erecting and maintenance of a booth were discussed.

The need of a restaurant license and sales tax certificate was pointed out.

The final vote on the booth was 34 in favor and 42 against. The Senior advisor this year is Miss Mattinson.

Complete plans of how Circleville high school will appear when the proposed addition is completed have been disclosed and are ready for the approval of the voters.

When the proposed structure is completed it will extend the present high school building to Corwin street where it will be joined with the Corwin street school.

The architecture of the addition will correspond exactly to that of the present buildings and will not in any way detract from the beauty of the structure.

With the completion of the building twin walks will lead from the street to the two Court street entrances.

There will also be two entrances on Corwin street. The new addition will combine the present buildings into one and will make a large three-story school to include all grades and a high school.

MANY JUNIORS ON GRID SQUAD

The juniors are well represented on the football squad by the following eighteen boys: David Adkins, Raymond Friece, Joseph Cook, Robert Denny, Raymond Francis, Robert Friece, Robert Funk, Millard Goode, Donald Henry.

Willard Hosler, Elmer Merriman, Richard Mills, George Montgomery, Hugh Montgomery, Joseph Smalley, Russell Weaver, Richard Weldon and Gayle Wolfe.

E. M. S. MEMBERS TO BE INITIATED

At the first meeting of the Epsilon Mu Sigma, Thursday, was decided that sixteen new members would be taken into the club at the next meeting.

The membership of the Epsilon Mu Sigma this year will consist of twenty-six seniors, juniors, and sophomores who received an average of ninety or above in English for the preceding year.

A discussion was held as to the type of program which is to be presented by this organization on December 2. It was later voted that plans for the program be postponed until the club's next meeting.

The E. M. S. will publish a scandal sheet at the end of the school term. The group is also planning an educational trip to places of interest in some nearby city.

Jessie Dresbach was elected vice president of the organization by unanimous vote of the members. Other officers for the ensuing year include William Ammer, president and Ann Denman, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Hitler is the advisor of this organization.

BLACK SHIRTS GAIN GREAT POPULARITY

The past week at C. H. S. has reminded one of the Fascist regime in Italy, the only thing lacking being Senor Mussolini.

The appearance of approximately thirty boys clad in shirts of the blackest hue aroused the suspicion of several of the school's best "G" men, who as yet have uncovered no incriminating evidence.

Chief of the C. H. S. detective bureau, Captain Morton Reichelderfer, has advised the student body not to worry; that if the black shirts start any war to he and his squad of alert "stoop pigeons" will promptly take them into custody.

Flash: We are informed by the latest news bulletin that these "blackshirts" are only senior class "Stooge" members.

E. M. S. TO INITIATE 17 NEW MEMBERS

At the E. M. S. meeting Thursday, it was decided to have the initiation of the 17 new members on October 14 at the high school building.

The refreshment committee for this meeting includes Ann Denman, Jessie Dresbach, Alice Griner, and Mary Ellen Maxey.

Jessie Dresbach was chosen vice-president to complete the list of officers for this year.

It was decided to hold all the meetings at the school this year instead of at the members' homes. The night for meeting has not been set.

SCHOLASTIC TAKEN BY WATSON CLASS

This year the members of Miss Watson's Senior English class will again subscribe for the "Scholastic". The seniors will use this magazine in connection with class work.

"The Scholastic" is essentially a high school magazine and is published weekly by the Scholastic Corporation in Pittsburgh.

A free subscription to any one of the following magazines will be sent to the high school library along with every ten subscriptions to "Scholastic": Atlantic Monthly, Harpers, Scribners, Popular Mechanics, and several others.

SPIRITUAL STRENGTH

Walter W. Head, chairman of the National committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery, has said, "But for the church, myriads of people would go thirsty even though they stand on the banks of sparkling brooks; but for the church, myriads of people would go hungry even though their granaries are filled to overflowing and their boards groan under the abundance of plenty."

The church program is predicated upon the conviction that man is a spiritual as well as a physical and mental being and that he will never live fully and completely until he feeds his spiritual nature as well as he does his physical and mental make-up. Bible reading, daily prayer and attendance at church services are essential elements in the creation of spiritual values. Spiritual strength is created only when we adopt this program and make it effective in our individual lives. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

REAL RESULTS IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The Riverside church in New York City of which Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick is pastor once asked the third graders what they had learned in the church school. Here are some of the answers:

1. "We share our money, but we have not learned to share other things, such as giving up our seats."
2. "We have learned to think about other kinds of people."
3. "We have learned that some children have to work, and don't have time to play and don't have a chance to learn."

4. "We have learned not always to think of ourselves."
5. "We have learned about unemployment and what lots of people have suffered from it."

A world conference of all non-Roman churches is to be held in Oxford, England, July 13-25, 1937. The delegation will be limited to three hundred, altho one hundred additional members who are to be selected from the world field. The American continent will have 85 delegates. This will be one of the most important gatherings that the Church has convened in many years.

Dr. Kagawa is due to visit the United States early next year. The Japanese government is said to have asked him to make visits as a friendly ambassador to England, the United States and other countries.

Representatives of the Methodist Episcopal Church South and the Methodist Protestant churches are attempting to heal the breach in their relationships caused by the slavery issue in 1843. If the union of these groups is accomplished, the new organization will have 35,000 churches, 29,000 ordained ministers and 20,000 local preachers. The membership would total approximately 7,650,000, with a property investment of $731,000,000 and an operating budget of approximately $100,000,000 annually.

Seven denominations are cooperating in the support of an interdenominational religious program at Grand Coulee at the site of the Grand Coulee Dam in the state of Washington. This support provides for a religious worker and helps toward the erection of a chapel building. The work will employ about four thousand men and will take between five and ten years to build. The Rev. Roy H. Murray has been appointed by the Washington Council of Churches and Christian Education for this work.

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN PROJECT AND WHAT ARE SOME DEFINITE PROJECTS IN WHICH AN INDIVIDUAL CAN ENGAGE IN FURTHERING THE WORK OF THE CHURCH?

A project is a Christian enterprise intended to render a useful Kingdom service and in which all concerned may cooperate. It is cooperative, constructive, consecrated in spirit, and Christian in character. It not only benefits others but reacts favorably upon those who participate. Some projects in which one may engage are: Accepting the responsibility to conduct a local leadership training school or teaching in the church school; Supervising a Boy or Girl Scout troop or similar organization; Sharing in the leadership of a week-day school of Christian education; According the responsibility to raise funds for better musical equipment, piano or other instruments; Contribute to the support of one or more missionaries or students in college; taking the responsibility for improving the church grounds and property and beautifying it in every way possible.

The Story of Jeremiah

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Jer. 1:1-10; 6:10, 11; 8:18; 26:1-24; chapters 36, 37, 38.

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell and Alfred J. Buescher

Jeremiah, the prophet, ministered during the reigns of Judah's last five kings. He is called "the weeping prophet" for his warnings and tears over the nation's sin and coming destruction in the Babylonian captivity.

The wicked King Jehoiakim took one of Jeremiah's warning messages and cut it into pieces with his knife, and burned it in the fire. But at God's command Jeremiah rewrote the message and added more severe words of judgment.

Zedekiah, another wicked king whom Jeremiah rebuked, had the prophet imprisoned in a deep, muddy pit where he was left to die. However, the prophet was later lifted out but still kept imprisoned until the city was destroyed.

When the Babylonian king took the city he slew King Zedekiah's sons, then put out the king's eyes and carried him a captive to Babylon. Thus all that Jeremiah had warned came to pass.

IL DUCE'S PROBLEM

IT IS not difficult to understand the scarcely curbed indignation of Premier Mussolini at how things are going with his Ethiopian dream. One may be sure that, in spite of the iron curb he holds over his people and the muffled gag he tightens on his press, ominous undercurrents portend he may be forced to abandon his colonial ambitions to set his own house in order.

His backyard situation may prove as disagreeable to him as the resistance Geneva courageously offered his ambitions. The correspondent of a London paper in Ethiopia reports that deaths at Mas-sawa from the incredible African heat have been totaling something like forty a day. Italy-bound vessels, the reporter goes on, are crammed with men "too broken by the heat of Eritrea even to raise a hand in salute to those outward bound."

The United States Public Health Service lends color to this yarn with a list of the variety of ills that can beset the European doomed to service in the realm of Haile Selassie.

Some of the unpleasant little hazards are epidemic diseases common in Ethiopia, such as smallpox, malaria, tuberculosis, influenza, pneumonia and dysentery. The health service adds to this as a forbidding clincher the information that "nearly all adults have tapeworms."

In the face of Mussolini's bewildering popularity, at home, these symptoms of the difficulties of battling Africa's assorted diseases cannot help but submerge the morale even of a determined fascist. Even the benighted followers of a Mahdi might well balk at offering their breasts to the ghostly weapons of infection and disease, no matter how much they might bank on finding Paradise in death by the sword.

What a wonderful wife Mile. Osaka, French memorizer, would make. Imagine telling her about sitting up with a sick lodge brother and then expecting her to forget what time in the yawning you returned home.

What became of H. V. (Screws) Kallenborn, ace "commentator" for one of the radio chains, who took to the air from somewhere near Mussolini to tell the American people how "misunderstood" his hero was?

We wonder what a politician is thinking about when he is addressing an audience that consists for the most part of voters and adherents. Or perhaps he doesn't think at all.

President Roosevelt has implied that a decision of the supreme court invalidating a part of the AAA will cost the country half a billion dollars. It may be cheap, at that.

Usually you can tell, just by looking at a man, that he always has to ride in the rumble seat.

Distant relatives are best. They never know it when their Christmas gifts become bridge prizes.

A potato control referendum has been suggested by Secretary Wallace. We suspect the supreme court will hold the first one.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

A REAL PROBLEM

THERE ARE three kinds of bridge problem hands. There is the problem which the expert will solve in actual play. There is the "trick hand" which can be played correctly only by seeing the cards, to make unusual plays. The hand today belongs to the third class, of "real problems", which require an expert to consider carefully, even played "double-dummy". Mr. Frank Cusack, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, must be credited for seeing the problem involved. In actual play the declarer went down one trick.

♠ Q 9 8 5 2
 ♠ A 10 8 7 2
 ♠ Q 9
 ♠ None
 ♠ K 10 4
 ♠ 9 5 3
 ♠ J 10 8 5
 ♠ A 6 5
 ♠ A J 7 6
 ♠ Q 7
 ♠ A 6 3
 ♠ 10 4 3 2

The contract is 5-Spades by South. The opening lead is the Ace of clubs, as East had bid that suit. Can South fulfill his contract against the best subsequent play of defenders?

A single trick must be lost in each major suit. Avoid also losing a diamond trick by following instructions. Dummy will ruff the opening lead. Declarer will go down if he at once leads trumps, as West then will lead the J of diamonds, and West will lead back that suit when he wins his heart trick. Lead dummy's lowest heart. Unless East wins that trick lead a small slam may be made. Have East's K win. East cannot lead a diamond without giving declarer two tricks in the suit. If East leads back a spade West's K wins the last trick for his side. If East's last heart is returned, South's Q will win. West will be given his spade trick and the remaining tricks belong to South, as will be explained. The best return lead is a club, forcing dummy to ruff.

If dummy is forced to ruff a second club, lead a trump and finesse the J, losing to West's K. It is too late for West to lead a diamond, if that is done South's Ace wins. He pulls trumps and dummy's A-10 of hearts pick up declarer's Q and West's 9-5, giving South opportunity to discard his two remaining clubs and his two diamonds on dummy's established hearts. A return of hearts by West will give South all remaining tricks. West's best defense is to ruff dummy for the third time, by leading West's last club. Leaving dummy with a single trump. Have dummy lead the Q of spades. Put South in with a diamond. Play the Ace of diamonds. Lead off the Ace of spades, to pick up West's last trump. Lead the Q of hearts. Overtake with dummy's Ace. Lead the 10 of hearts, picking up West's last heart. Discard South's losers on good hearts. Have South ruff the thirteenth trick. South cannot be prevented from making 5-and 4 spades.

READ THIS FIRST:

Fun, parties, pretty clothes and beaux are things unattractive Carol Kennedy had never desired until she looked into the eyes of Dr. Owen Craig, fiance of her cousin, Kathy Prentice. Kathy is marrying Owen for social prestige alone. When Carol, an orphan, comes into a vast fortune, she suddenly decides to leave her old home in Connecticut and seek freedom and happiness in New York. Isabel Bronson, an old school chum, helps Carol buy proper clothes and takes her to her first cocktail party where she meets Gary Crandall, a playboy. Acting on a whim, he takes her to a beauty shop from which she emerges an attractive girl. Knowing nothing of her wealth, he helps her to meet Manfred Morris, theatrical producer, who gives her a part in a Broadway show. But Carol does not care for the theater. At Isabel's wedding she sees Owen Craig again just as Gary proposes marriage. Kathy calls on Carol to say she is going abroad. Morris sends Carol the script for a new play which she is reading when Owen drops in. Kathy is in Europe and Owen and Carol spend a pleasant evening in her apartment. Owen helps Carol to obtain a temporary job as office nurse with a colleague, Dr. Harding. Gary returns from a fishing trip and calls for Carol at the doctor's office. He kisses her for the first time.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 24

"HOW DO YOU like the job?" Miss Sanford asked Carol when she had been with Dr. Harding a month. "I'm crazy about it," Carol answered, "but I'm afraid it will soon be over. The doctor heard from Miss Jones today; she'll soon be coming back."

"This isn't the only doctor's office in the world. You'll get another soon. I'm sure Dr. Harding will recommend you highly. He tells me that you are the 'soothingest' office nurse he's ever had. You must have taken my advice about handling the patients like children."

"That's not hard to do. I like them. And the doctor is giving me more and more to do. I wish I could help him with his therapeutic treatments."

"Why don't you take a course? There's a dandy just beginning at the Physicians' next week and it costs very little."

So Carol had something to do with her evenings. Three nights a week she spent learning therapeutics at the Physicians' hospital. And she found other ways to fill the other evenings.

Wayne Somers, the boy she had met at Mary's house party, was back in town and her frank admirer. He took her to her first football game. On Saturday afternoons they traveled up to New Haven, down to Princeton, up to the Columbia stadium. Carol knew very little about the game but she knew when to scream herself hoarse for the team Wayne cheered. She loved the excitement, the noise, the flowers Wayne sent her to pin on the shoulder of her tweed coat, the feather in a check cap, the hot dogs they ate between the halves of the game. She loved the shouting, the merry wise-cracking, the crowded train back to New York. She loved the dancing at fraternity houses afterwards. She adored every minute of these week-end thrills, the things she had heard about when she was in college and never experienced.

She looked 16 when the bright color came into her cheeks and excitement lent a sparkle to her cheeks. Small wonder that she was finding life exciting at her first real taste of what she called "kid fun."

In Wayne himself she was not interested. She found no depth in him but he was a good enough companion with whom to laugh and play. Gary pretended to be very jealous of him and wisely did not intrude his company when he knew that Carol was seeing him.

Carol gave a party after the Columbia-Lehigh game. There were about 50 who came for cocktails and supper. Gary, Isabel and her new husband, Mary and some of the people Carol had met at her house, gathered there for Carol's first party.

Carol had little attention for the game. She wondered if there would be the things which she desired.

There were few names under V. Van Cleve. She looked at the card, wondering who Miss Miranda Van Cleve was. Somewhere she had heard that name. It was associated with something... somewhere... she tried to remember it but it escaped her memory. There was nothing on the card but the name and address. That was strange. Perhaps the doctor had forgotten to give his nurse the history. She put the card aside. She would ask Dr. Harding about it on the morrow.

There were few names to finish. She stacked the cards neatly and he enough lobster salad. If the chicken was cooked in sherry in the chafing dish was a truly good dish for such a party. There were countless other delicacies. There was the little colored boy, dug up by Beulah, to play an accordion, which, of course, was promptly taken away from him by one or another of Carol's guests. They turned the room upside down, broke the glasses, covered the place with ashles, rolled up the rug for an exhibition dance. Then, sitting before the blazing hearth, they sang at the top of their lungs until their songs must surely have been heard across the river. And trooping out happily and noisily at an early hour in the morning, left Carol to her apartment, looking as though it had been struck by lightning, which didn't bother that happy girl at all.

"I'm sure Dr. Harding will recommend you highly."

There, at last she had given a party that was a success. Everyone had had a good time. It was young and it was merry and Carol had enjoyed herself. But not as much as one other night in that same place. A tiny voice within her kept insisting: "Carol sang loudly to still that voice."

There is nothing quite so lonely as the Sunday that follows a gay Saturday night. Beulah made short work of tidying the rooms once more, of putting fresh candles into the candlesticks, laying a fresh fire and cradling all signs of the night before. Carol could find nothing to do.

"Want to have supper with me and go to the Grahams for some bridge?" Gary had invited.

Carol didn't. She had Monday ahead of her and she knew the party would be late on Sunday but when five o'clock came she wished she had accepted. It was too early to dine and too late to see an afternoon movie. She pulled on a hat, threw a sports coat over her knitted dress and took herself out for a walk.

Then she had an idea. Monday was a heavy day at the office and she would have no time to catch up on the case histories she was copying. She would go to the office and work for an hour or two.

It was quiet, restful there. She took off her coat and sat down before the typewriter. For an hour she worked. She was nearly done.

There, the W's were done. There were few names under V. Van Cleve. She looked at the card, wondering who Miss Miranda Van Cleve was. Somewhere she had heard that name. It was associated with something... somewhere... she tried to remember it but it escaped her memory. There was nothing on the card but the name and address. That was strange. Perhaps the doctor had forgotten to give his nurse the history. She put the card aside. She would ask Dr. Harding about it on the morrow.

AT THE CIRCLE

Five singing stars are heard in Liberty's musical romance, "The Old Homestead," the feature attraction scheduled for Circle Theatre on Sunday, Monday. Each one is heard in an original song hit, specially written for the production by top-notchers in the popular music field.

Lawrence Gray, who won screen prominence through his portrayal of the doughboy in Marion Davies' picture, "Marianne," and recently followed it up with another stellar role in Liberty's musical hit, "Dizzy Dames," comes through with another singing part as the farm lad in "The Old Homestead." His rendition of "Flow Boy" and "Moonlight in Heaven"—two of the picture's song successes—make him one of screen's most popular singing leading men.

AT THE CLIFTONA

One of the most vivid characterizations of recent years will be brought to the screen of the Cliftona Theatre tomorrow with Katharine Hepburn in the title role, "Alice Adams," written by Booth Tarkington in 1921, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1922 and was one of the most talked-of novels of its day.

The story revolves about a young girl and her family in a small town in the Middle West. Greatly embarrassed by her shabby home, pack of money and the resulting social oblivion, she strives to cover her hurt pride with a mask of pretense. When she stops trying to deceive herself and the man she loves, she wins the things which she desires.

"Alice Adams" is an unvarnished picture of the heartaches faced by thousands of girls who seek to break loose from the fetters imposed upon them by poverty and win social recognition.

Katharine Hepburn gives to the part a wealth of subtle understanding and an appealing pathos that strikes right to the heart. Not since her sensational performance in "Morning Glory," which won her the Academy Award, has the star had a role which offered such an opportunity for striking interpretation.

Fred MacMurray has the role of the man who epitomizes all Alice's dreams of the ideal lover. Contrasting pictures of the home of the town's social queen and the shabby home of the Adams, serve to further dramatize the gallant battle which Alice wages against snobbery and hypocrisy.

The children of the county home were entertained Saturday afternoon at the Cliftona Theatre.

AT THE GRAND

Willie Fung, who is Pat O'Brien's No. 1 Boy in the Cosmopolitan production "Oil for the Lamps of China," showing at the Grand Theatre, is through paddling around in Chinese junk.

Between scenes on a Chinese waterfront, Willie, with three of the 400 Chinese on the set, decided to try one of the boats. Willie stepped into the boat without the necessary technique. Willie was fished out of the water!

Borah to Attack Hoover As Greatest Obstacle to GOP Progressivism.

WASHINGTON—Senator Borah is planning a speech which will take the hide off Herbert Hoover. He is convinced that Hoover is one of the greatest obstacles to Progressivism within the Republican Party... Father Coughlin has given definite assurance to Borah that he will support him for the presidency... This, together with the recent flirtation between Borah and Townsend, makes the Idaho Senator the most potent contender the GOP has... President Roosevelt recently received an Indian luck charm from a British Army officer who wrote that the mate was in the possession of Queen Mary. The State Department, in returning the gift, said, in effect: "The President is not permitted by law to receive gifts from foreign sources, even if its counterpart does bring luck to Queen Mary."

Liberty

Jim Farley is in a unique position to gauge the reaction Jo Jett Shouse gets from his Liberty League radio broadcasts against the New Deal. He can simply count the mail Jo Jett receives. After one recent broadcast, Jo Jett got a mere handful of letters... Nevertheless, general business of the Liberty League is booming. It has just added a new suite of rooms in the National Press Building... Office space in Washington has become so scarce that the newly appointed Bituminous Coal Board had to set up temporary headquarters in a hotel... The Navy Day stamp due from the presses by October 27, has Big Jim Farley on the horns of a dilemma. Irish partisans are urging that the picture of John Barry be put on the special stamp as the Father of the U. S. Navy. Hotly opposed to this are Scotchmen who insist that the honor belongs to John Paul Jones. Jim has tried to pass the buck to the Navy Department... The election of Iowa's J. Raymond Murphy as National Commander of the American Legion means a big shake-up in personnel of headquarters staff.

First Lady

Mrs. Roosevelt has been counseling with close friends regarding the widespread criticism about her public activities. She is much concerned over the volume of the unfavorable comment and is asking her intimates what she should do—disregard it or retire from the limelight... The razzing received by Representative Wright Patman at the American Legion convention was not the only mauling he was subjected to by the veterans. The day before, at the convocation of the 40 & 8, he was given the "silent treatment" when he rose to talk... Although Congress is in adjournment, the Capitol resounds with clatter and activity. The entire structure, from dome to sub-basement, is being overhauled and refurbished...

The august Supreme Court is considering, employing a press relations assistant. For the first time in history, the court's new building has several press rooms, but the correspondents are urging a special attaché to act as liaison man between them and the justices... Among those who wrote to Miss O'Reilly, Assistant Mint Director, congratulating her on her tenure of duty, was Ogden L. Mills, Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury.

Ethiopia

One thing to be remembered about the Italian march into Ethiopia is that Aduwa is not in the mountains, but at the foot of them. When the Italians really get into the mountains their trouble begins... American military experts estimate that Mussolini may be able to take Addis Ababa in relatively short time, but it will take two to three years actually to subdue the country. The estimate is based on the French campaigns in Syria and the Rif and the Spanish campaign in Morocco... The State Department has been seriously handicapped in getting accurate news from the Ethiopian front. News from the American Legation depends almost entirely upon Emperor Haile Selassie, and he in turn depends upon tom-toms and signal fires. There is no telegraph or radio connection with the Ethiopian armies... News from the Italian front has been heavily censored.

Medics Suggest Theories For Improvement of Man

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DR. HARRY ELMER BARNES, in his lately published "The History of Western Civilization," is pretty cocksure about most things, but he is a little doubtful as to whether mankind is going to improve or not.

Up to the present man has not improved. Primitive man, at least during the last 30,000 years, both physically and mentally, was in no way inferior to, or in any fundamental respect different from, modern civilized man.

But such shilly-shallying has got to stop, unless man is going to disappoint Dr. Barnes' expectations, because we are at the "crisis in contemporary civilization," and "it is high time that students of history recognize that all is not well in the modern world, and accustom themselves to the idea of social change."

The same viewpoint is expressed by another writer, Dr. C. C. Hurst, in "Heredity and the Ascent of Man." "If man determines to take a hand in his own destiny, intellectual progress will be rapid and more rapid with each generation. On the other hand, if he refuses to act on the new knowledge, intellectual progress will be slow and intermittent as in the past, since natural selection favors a dominant mediocrity."

Improve by Eugenics

That, of course, is improvement not by the imposition of a new social system, but by the application of biological laws—eugenics. And it is when we begin to formulate what we want from genetics that we uncover its theoretical inadequacy. To improve the entire race and create a general advance of intellectual prowess would be ruinous: because one man out of a million population—125 truly advanced men in this country—can furnish us more progress in science, medicine, engineering, industrialization, and economics than we can easily absorb in one generation. The rest of us must be content with, and need only be qualified for, humble tasks.

And indeed the examples of families who have maintained a high standard of hereditary selection—the Roosevelts and the Edwardes—show that they have attained merely a higher level of mediocrity. They have produced jurists, physicians, college professors, bankers—in general, neither laborers nor leaders. If we turn to the starry-eyed geniuses of the world—Shakespeare, Dickens, Keats, Lincoln, Pasteur, Newton, Edison, Ford—we find they sprang from parents of just that level of dominant mediocrity that Dr. Hurst sees as the product of our present natural selection.

What eugenics could do, if enforced, would very probably be to cut down the birth of feeble-minded and mentally deficient, which have become an enormous burden on the social structure.

Another plan for saving civilization is that of Dr. Alexis Carrel, "Man, the Unknown," who believes the world should be ruled by a Council of Doctors of Medicine to whom the political rulers of the world would come for orders. "Their silent meditation would protect the inhabitants of the new city from the mechanical inventions which are dangerous for their body or their mind, from the whims of the specialists in education, nutrition, morals, sociology."

At any rate, we might give the doctors a trial. They couldn't do any worse than the politicians.

Trailer Following Ball-Carrier, Ready to Grab Lateral Pass, Gives Defense Another Problem

By HARRY KIPKE
Football Coach, University of Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 12.—A new term has come into football parlance in the last few years and you will hear it frequently from now on. In the old game a coach had his line plungers, blockers, tacklers, punters, drop kickers and place kickers. Then along came the forward passing game and he added to his roster passers and receivers. Now the lateral is in vogue and a new functionary has come into the picture—the trailer.

He is the lad who tags along with the ball carrier, running out toward the sideline from him and a little to his rear. He is the man who is ready to take a lateral pass when the traffic up in front gets a bit too congested. Sometimes he isn't all alone in his trailing, for two or three trailers can often be even more dangerous than one, and a whole lot of laterals are more efficient than a single toss.

Gives Defense More Work

This trailer is a disconcerting kind of person. He's troublesome even if he keeps on trailing. He worries the opposition. If the opposition at the particular point of attack happens to be a single tackler, that trailer is plumb poison. If said tackler moves in on the carrier, the ball totter just tosses back to the trailer and the latter is off goalward. In other words, this trailer fellow makes it absolutely necessary for a whole lot of tacklers to get in front of the ball carrier and to set up a barrage of hostility. And the more trailers there are, the more tacklers are needed.

A defensive halfback, moving up to face a flank attack, used to be faced with just one job—drive in and grab the ball carrier. Now he has to figure out whether or not there's a trailer around, who he is and what will happen if that trailer becomes a ball totter. The same thing happens on forward passes. The defense no longer can converge on the receiver—there's apt to be a trailer coming up on the scene most any old time.

From all of which, you can understand just what is meant when coaches begin worrying about lateral passes. They aren't so concerned about the lateral itself because it has to be a backward toss and it isn't the easiest kind of a play to handle. But it's the threat that the lateral pass offers that makes the thing so pesky.

Many coaches are succeeding with laterals, to be sure. But they are particularly blessed with some geniuses who can hang on to the ball. In its two games last Saturday with St. Lawrence and Amherst colleges, the Colgate team handed laterals perfectly time after time. On more than one play as many as five Colgate men handed the ball as it was tossed back and forth, thoroughly befuddling the defense.

About This And That In Many Sports

DAD'S DAY

Dads will have their day at the high school Nov. 1 when what is expected to become an annual "Dad's Day" will be staged. The father of every boy on the squad will be admitted to the game free that day by identifying himself; will be permitted to go in the dressing room, watch his boy get into his pads and headgear, listen to Coach Jack Landrum give the boys their pre-game instructions, and sit beside them on the bench.

Marysville Is Foe

Each dad will wear, pinned on the back of his coat, the number carried on the jersey of his football playing son—Marysville, coached by inimitable Jerry Kingsmore, will be the Red and Black foe that day in a Central Buckeye game.

Strong County Teams

There are going to be a lot of good basketball teams in the Pickaway-co circuit this year; boys, we mean—Derby-two, defending champion, has a new coach, Leonard Hill, and lost a lot of material so may be out of the race for honors; New Holland has Everett Landman, Chuck Ater and Herb Dennis; Ashville retains Chuck Young, Gregg, Steinbrook and several others, losing Scoles; Walnut loses Dunkel and Kaiser, the backbones of its fine team; Deer Creek, Jackson, Washington, Salt Creek, Perry, Muhlenberg, and Monroe are unknown quantities—From Commercial Point, the town that so unceremoniously bumped New Holland in last spring's tourney, comes reports that the Scioto-two crew will be tough—A new coach, Raymond Hackney, is in charge and reports have it that he has a couple of six footers and some smaller boys who are tough—Wilson, a sophomore, will play center; he has Finch and Raser, a pair of sweet guards who score often; he lost Hoover and Gulick, last year's forwards, but "Smookey" Williams, diminutive pride of Dallas Williams, as an offensive threat—WATCH SCIOTO-TWO—The season open Nov. 15 with standings to be kept of all games and cups to be presented to boys and girls by The Herald to be fought for.

Grandview became the favorite in the Central Buckeye league Friday defeating Bexley, 6 to 0. A 30-yard pass to Waller who ran 15 yards did the work.

Fumbles Give Delaware Ball in Dangerous Territory; Tigers Drives Stopped

Although they outplayed the Delaware team through nearly all the second half and several times threatened the goal line, the Tigers lost their Central Buckeye league game Friday in the college town by a 25-0 score.

A major casualty resulted when Bob Fickardt, lineman, suffered a broken collar-bone. He will be out for the season.

The Tigers were victims of bad breaks in the first half, a high pass from center giving the ball to the Delaware team in scoring position for their first touchdown. A fumble again gave the Delaware outfit the ball in midfield from which point they marched for their second goal. The third came after a Delaware drive was stopped when the Tigers recovered a fumble, only to delay the score which came on a lateral and a drive by Cartwright.

The half ended 19-0.

Stopped on Six

In the third session the Tigers made a determined drive for the goal only to lose the ball on downs on the 6-yard stripe. Taking the ball back down the field in another attempt, the Tigers lost it on an interception.

Another fumble after an exchange of punts gave the ball to Chuck Taylor's boys on the 18-yard stripe from which point B u r c h circled an end for the score.

The play of John Griffith, who has been favoring a bad shoulder, was enlightening. He got a lot of tackles and many gains. Jenkins and Henry also did well in the backfield while the line worked harder than it has this year. The breaks of the game caused the Delaware scoring on nearly every occasion.

Delaware made 11 first downs and the Tigers tallied 7.

SUNDAY DRIVERS GIVEN WARNING

Sunday can very well be called the day of mad motoring.

It is no wonder that Sunday is the peak day for accidents. First of all, it is also the peak day for the volume of traffic. All day long of a Sunday, motorists go speeding along the highways as if they were racing to meet their end, as often enough they do. Drivers refuse to take heed of the heavy flow of traffic—and highways are made Highways of Death.

Once known as the day of rest, Sunday is fast gaining for itself the reputation of the day of eternal rest.

If you drive on Sunday and want to stay alive—or at least escape injury—observe these safety rules.

First: Keep your attention concentrated on your driving. Know as much as possible what is going on ahead, behind and beside you.

Second: Follow as straight a course as possible.

Third: See that you leave a safe stopping distance between your car and the one ahead.

Fourth: Use hand signals to supplement your stop light.

Fifth: Have your car under perfect control when approaching an intersection.

Sixth: Don't insist on right-of-way.

GIBBONS SEES EARLY END TO ITALIAN WAR

Writer Predicts Final Settlement to Be Made at An Early Date.

GUGSA SURRENDERS

Ethiopian Leader Offers To Fight For Italy.

By FLOYD GIBBONS

ASMARA, Eritrea, Oct. 12.—Ras Haile Selassie Gugsa has not only surrendered his domain and 12,000 fighting men to Mussolini, but has offered to fight for Italy against the Ethiopian emperor.

A tall, thin, wiry, fuzzy-haired man with an Ethiopian adaption of a European khaki military uniform, wearing a sun helmet instead of the native headdress, Ras Gugsa stepped from an Italian military car at general headquarters here today, respectfully returned the salute of General Emilio De Bono and his staff officers, and chatted with the newspaper correspondents.

Offers to Fight

He said he was willing to reorganize his Ethiopian forces under Italian direction and drive southwards with the Italian penetration and, if necessary, engage in battle with any loyal Ethiopian forces encountered.

Indications here are that Emperor Haile Selassie's control over his distant provinces and provincial chiefs is nominal, and there are quite likely to be more desertions from the standard of the King of Kings.

Maybe my wish is father to the thought, but it begins to look to me like peace is here, and the final settlement of the Ethiopian tangle will be argued around the international table, with Mussolini signing the bird and serving the portions.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER MINISTER REMAINS

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 12.—A serious serio-comic conflict broke out today between Count Luigi Vinciguerra, the Italian minister, and the Ethiopian government, when, rejecting the expulsion order issued by Emperor Haile Selassie, Count Vinciguerra failed to take the famous "very last train" for Djibouti.

The entire diplomatic corps, the British, French, German, Belgian, and American ministers, all in their full regalia with native Asakari escorts, appeared at the station together with several hundred other white folk to see Count Vinciguerra off.

But Count Vinciguerra stayed at home.

FIVE ELIGIBLE TO ENTER CCC CAMPS

Five Pickaway-co men have an opportunity to enroll in CCC camps, according to an announcement Thursday afternoon from the local federal relief office. The closing date for registering is Oct. 16.

CCC officials are making a drive to fill all the camps by Nov. 1 when federal aid for direct relief will be discontinued.

Members of families receiving aid from township trustees, city and county officials are eligible to enter. A letter from relief officials must be furnished at the time application is made. The age for applicants ranges from 17 to 28.

WHY SANCTIONS MAY NOT WORK

Economic sanctions against Italy, voted by the League of Nations, may not mean so much. Both Austria and Hungary voted against such sanctions and Germany does not belong to the league. Thus these countries may continue dealing with Italy, exchanging trade. Germany has a through route, via Austria, untouched by countries invoking sanctions.

Italy Protests Arms Embargo

Note Ignored, However, As Nations Take Action to Cut Off Credit and Vital Commodities; British and French Active.

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—Italy today dispatched a note to the League of Nations "violently protesting" against the drastic arms embargo imposed yesterday, but the shock troops of the league's "general staff" countered with definite plans for cutting off Italy's credit and vital commodities.

FLAMES HIT OHIO PATROL

$20,000 Lost as Cambridge Station of Highway Patrol is Burned

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 12.—A devastating fire of unknown origin early today swept the district headquarters of the state highway patrol and radio station here causing an estimated loss of approximately $20,000.

The two-story W. E. Bonar residence, in which the headquarters was located, was almost a total loss, the highway patrol reported. Flames started in the basement and gained rapid headway.

A small portion of the $10,000 radio equipment was saved by patrolmen. Practically all of the furnishings in the house were destroyed.

When the roof collapsed, four firemen narrowly escaped being trapped. Patrolman Bushong suffered a head cut when struck by debris.

$92 TAKEN FROM BAKERY BILLFOLD

Efforts are being made to learn the identity of the person who, Friday afternoon, took $92 belonging to the W. E. Wallace bakery.

The person picked up a billfold, stepped into the stairway leading to Dr. O. J. Towers' office and took out the money. He or she dropped the billfold, still containing a number of checks, on the steps.

Harold Beery, E. Franklin-st., was taking a deposit to the Third National bank a little after 2 p. m. and was carrying the billfold with a bag of silver under his raincoat. When he arrived at the bank he found the billfold missing and immediately started back down the street. The person who found the money must have seen young Beery drop it, picked it up and removed the money at once making a getaway.

DAVEY 'CRACK' AT GRID TEAM IS DISCOUNTED

Griffith Sees No Conference Rule Against Athletes Working

PRACTICE APPROVED

Believe Statement Result of "Warfare".

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12.—Ohio State university officials, disconcerted by Gov. Martin L. Davey's dramatic charge that "we have most of the football squad on the state payroll," indicated today they have no objection to the athletes keeping their jobs.

Athletic Director L. W. St. John refuted the governor's claim that "most" of the squad works for the state government when not attending classes or practicing on the gridiron. Of the 35 squad members, he said 13 have part-time jobs with the state. Eight, however, are varsity squad men.

Their Wages Vary

Their wages range from 40 cents an hour for operating elevators in the state office building to $50 a month for part-time work in the highway department.

The athletes, their coaches, rooters and employers alike were heartened by word from Maj. John L. Griffith, "Big Ten" commissioner in Chicago, that there is no conference rule against athletes working for pay.

"It is assumed," the major added, "that the athletes referred to (by Davey) performed work in exchange for their wages or salaries."

And the fans here assumed that O. S. U. athletic officials were far too astute to risk permitting important cogs in their most highly-touted football team in years to accept pay except in return for labor. To do so would lay themselves open to having a possible championship team dissolved in mid-season by ineligibility rulings.

While grid fans outside of Ohio wondered why such charge should issue from the governor of a state whose name the university bears, those living here well knew it resulted from animosity between Davey and O. S. U. officials, growing out of his $1,286,000 slash in the institution's 1935-36 appropriation.

For weeks the state has witnessed desultory warfare between the executive and the university president, Dr. George W. Rightmire. Davey told Rightmire if he couldn't run the school on the residual appropriation he should step out and make way for someone who could, while the president continued on Page Six.

DEMOCRATS DISCUSS CAMPAIGN PLANS

Edward L. Snider, S. Court-st., was endorsed for a position in the Industrial commission.

BELIEVE CHICAGO'S MILK STRIKE ENDED

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—The milk strike which has raged through the great Chicago milk shed for the past two weeks was believed near a settlement today, though distributors denied they were negotiating with the strikers.

LIFE IS SPARED

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12.—John Van Gundy, 47-year-old World War veteran, today faced life imprisonment in Ohio Penitentiary. A Franklin-co criminal court jury returned a second-degree murder verdict against him in the axe slaying of his 63-year-old wife on May 19.

After a two and one-half hour debate, the 10 men and two women jurors spared the veteran's life by finding him not guilty of first-degree murder.

MUSSOLINI'S SON-IN-LAW

An Interview With the Young Man Who Mowed Down Ethiopians With His Bombing Squadron

COUNT GALEAZZO CIANO

As the leader of his squadron of 15 bombing planes.

"We then climbed down to about 100 meters from the ground and gave them the machine guns."

The writer of this article had an interview in Rome with Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Ciano, and this highly interesting observation, the result.

By GERALD FRANK

Suave, well-dressed, surprisingly youthful—

A pleasant college student? Someone's secretary? Perhaps a bank clerk or a haberdasher's assistant.

So runs your mind when you first meet Count Galeazzo Ciano, whose place in history seems assured not as Mussolini's son-in-law, nor as the youngest member of the Italian cabinet—at 32 he is minister of press and propaganda—but as the daring young man who began hostilities in the War of 1935.

HOUSE GROUP IN DEADLOCK

Finance Committee Recesses Until Tuesday; "Star Chamber" Held

COLUMBUS, Oct. 12.—Torn by disagreement over the extent of budget increases in a revised biennial appropriations bill, the House finance committee today recessed until next Tuesday.

At that time the cumbersome committee of 23 members will again endeavor to reach an accord so the full house membership can be called back to pass the revised revenue bills.

Governor Davey is insisting that increases over the original appropriations bill as it stood after he had slashed away $8,800,000 by executive votes, shall not exceed $500,000.

Three independent sections of the large financial committee were reported to have arrived at what each considered minimum increases in the neighborhood of $750,000, far in excess of the arbitrary figure fixed by the governor.

With the committee far from an accord Chairman Julian Schweitzer (D) has declared, contrary to House rules, held a "star chamber" session, excluding everyone but committee members. His excuse was that such action was necessary for his group to concentrate on the problem at hand.

MUSSOLINI'S SON-IN-LAW

could arrange an interview for you with Mussolini. Through him and through him alone you saw it.

Count Ciano was not an easy man to reach. He was extraordinarily busy. In the palatial government palace on Via Vittorio Benito he had surrounded himself with numerous secretaries. They were handsome young Italians with Riviera manners and an Oxonian English accent, nearly all of them holders of titled names. It was almost as difficult to see Count Ciano as to see his famed father-in-law.

Youthful in Appearance
When finally my credentials had been examined and re-examined I was ushered into his office. I found a dark-eyed, dark-haired boy sitting behind a desk. I was astonished. This the redoubtable Count Ciano? ... Perhaps another secretary? He stood and his hand went out in the Fascist salute. "Count Ciano?" I asked doubtfully.

He smiled pleasantly. "Yes," he said. "Want you sit down?"

It took only a moment to dispel the illusion. Count Ciano moves swiftly. Dispatch is marked in every gesture. There is determination in the firm jaw, and the straight mouth betrays the boyish complexion and roundness of face. He leaned back in his seat, his fingers toying with a letter opener, his black eyes quick and direct upon me.

He asked the usual, courteous questions, where I had been and what I had seen. But even as he asked one felt his mind running far ahead, probing and pursuing. This was child's play and he had little time for it.

Ever-Present Portrait
On the wall behind him hung a large autographed portrait of Mussolini. The hypnotic eye, the outthrust jaw. From the young man sitting below one felt the same nervous, impatient energy. One felt he was like a coiled spring—something waiting and electric in the vitality which literally emanated from him.

Ah, yes, Premier Mussolini. He was sorry, but His Excellency was in the north of Italy, observing flying maneuvers. Was there anything else that could be done? A quick, catlike reach for a pencil; a swift, jutting down of name, address, notes; a rise, a rapid salute, a bow, and the interview ended.

I opened the door and before it was closed behind me it was opened again. A man hurried in with a sheaf of letters. While I waited for the elevator I watched the door open and close, open and close. My last impression was a thick-carpeted room, a portrait of Mussolini, powerful and silent, below it the deft, sure, quick, impatient movements of a soft-faced boy.

It is not difficult to visualize those same, sure movements tonight and all the remainder of the nights as Count Ciano roars with his "desperate" bombing squadrons over Ethiopia. It is not difficult to visualize that same quickness of thought and rapidity of action when young Count Ciano, flying his squadron out of the dawn felt bullets thudding against his plane, turned and determined swiftly from what direction they came; and as swiftly, with a catlike movement, gave the command to fire. It is said that 1,700 Ethiopian—men, women and children—perished from the Italian bombing on that score.

The movement of that command to fire may rank in historic significance with a fateful movement 21 years earlier, in turreted Sarajevo, when the signal to shoot flickered from the impassioned brain of young Gabriel Princip to his waiting, trembling trigger finger.

And a war began into which a world tumbled.

What Price Power?

Are we a civilized people? Or are we merely slaves who will bend our backs to the whip of the master?

"Caesar was a noble man," spake Brutus, but the day of Brutus has passed just as Jupiter has passed and been replaced by a more powerful being in this modern world.

Caesar Benito Mussolini in his zest for world power seeks to make himself a God. Greed, hatred and the inventions of the Evil One are his stock in trade.

Has he a heart to feel for those whose homes he will destroy, whose children he will make orphans? Can no power stop him in his greed for other lands to conquer? If he conquers Ethiopia, will that suffice? No, he will be another Alexander looking for more worlds to conquer.

Jesus, who came to teach us how to live by faith, by truth, by love and by humility can only sorrow at seeing how one of his creatures can defy every idea of good to the majority, for the sake of world power.

Mussolini is a man who is defying all laws of human relations to gain his end heedless of the physical, mental and emotional pain inflicted upon his fellowmen. Cannot we who have been reared in a land of equal rights, liberty of speech, freedom in religion, in some way help a country which is being invaded in such a brutal way?

The United States, which has always been a friend in need to our weaker brothers, has only to withhold arms, ammunitions, food, clothing, and other needs from belligerent nations; in other words, tend to her own business. By such a procedure not only will our country be spared another disastrous war, but our example will help to bring peace.

student opinion

Question: What do you think of the public address system at the football games?

Meredith Bach, freshman: For people who do not know much about football it is a good thing. The announcer knows all the answers; where the ball is, what the score is, who's hurt and many other things that an ordinary observer does not know.

Caroline Michaels, sophomore: In a school this small I think it unnecessary.

Everyone can see on a field of this size and the energy and expense could be used for better things; such as bleachers for spectators.

Dick Mills, junior: Local people who are not familiar with the players and strangers do not know who is going in and coming out; who is carrying the ball; who made the tackle; who intercepted the pass.

The announcer at the "mike" can tell them all these things. Ben Stevenson, junior: Personally I don't like it. I have a physical grievance against it, because I received a shock from it at the rainy game the other week.

Mary Hall, senior: Sometime the spectators at a game jump around so in their enthusiasm that persons standing behind are prevented from seeing; but with a public address system one can hear what's happening even though one can't see it.

Girls Glee Club Plans Wiener Roast

At the business meeting of the Girls' Glee club Monday, it was decided to have several social functions throughout the year.

The first one, a wiener roast, will be held on October 23 at the home of Betty Betz.

The refreshment committee for this occasion includes Harriett Berry, Ruby Chalfin, Marjorie Leach, and Marvonne Wallace.

The entertainment committee consists of Dorothy Beatty, Ruth Clarke, Jane Huffer, and Mary Newmyer.

In charge of transportation are Ann Denman, Ada Mae Gardner, Emily Gunning, and Betty Heeter. Plans were discussed for an assembly program in the near future.

Assembly Programs Assigned to Groups

Again this year a large number of our assembly programs will be presented by the classes and organizations of the student body.

Assemblies scheduled for the first semester are the following:

Oct. 28—Sr. Girl Reserves.
Nov. 4—Stooges.
Nov. 11—Journalism class.
Nov. 25—Junior class.
Dec. 2—E. M. S.
Dec. 9—Sr. Class.

Jan. 13—Sophomore Class.
Jan. 20—Jr. Girl Reserves.

Any school organization or group of pupils wishing to sponsor a program are asked to see the principal for further particulars. Mr. Reger requested that all classes and organizations sponsor one program a semester.

HALLOWEEN DANCE AT ATHLETIC CLUB

A variety of hallowe'en costumes will be displayed at the Hallowe'en dance, November 1, at the Circleville Athletic club as the student body dons Hallowe'en attire and moves to the rhythm of popular dance tunes.

The social committee is making preparations for this function which is the first of its kind to be held this year.

Tickets may be purchased at a date to be announced. The price will be 50 cents per couple, single admission 30 cents.

Boys, be asking the girl friend early so that you will get the one you want! Girls, start getting the boys for indications as that this will be one of the outstanding social events of the year!

The various committees in charge of this affair are busily engaged making arrangements for the first social function of the year.

GIRL RESERVES INITIATE EIGHT

Eight girls became members of the Senior Girl Reserves at the initiation held Wednesday evening.

These people included Dorothy Jenkins, Mary Mavis, Jean Moffitt, Doris Mossbarger, Thelma Piper and Edna Shaw, seniors; Harriet McGath and Mary Catherine Trump, juniors.

An average grade of 80 or above for the preceding year is required in order to become a member of the Girl Reserves. Other requirements are a willingness to work and an interest in the club.

The formal initiation came first and then the dinner was served. The girls on the food committees were Wahnita Barnhart, Ruby Chalfin, Jane Drum and Alice Griner.

The informal initiation followed. This created much fun and laughter for everyone.

Members of the initiating committee included Jean Cryder, Faye Elliott, Jane Littleton and Mary Ann Sapp.

Miss Rains and Miss Watson are advisor and assistant, respectively, for the Girl Reserves.

SHANER SPEAKS IN ASSEMBLY

As a part of the week's program celebrating Fire Prevention week, L. T. Shaner, safety director, at Friday's assembly gave some valuable advice on this important subject.

On Friday also Mr. Watt's general science classes visited the Fire Department.

Talmer Wiser, Fire Chief, answered questions submitted to him by the members of the science classes. These questions were prepared by the pupils earlier in the week and deposited in a box in the classroom.

Sheets with directions for fire drills were passed out to the student body Thursday afternoon. It is hoped that these precautions will be of value in preventing fires.

RED AND BLACK JOINS EXCHANGE

Ten Ohio colleges and high schools compose the student exchange publication of the journalism class this year.

Ohio State, Ohio University, Ohio Wesleyan, and Wooster constitute the universities while Ash-tabula high, Chillicothe high, Columbus South, Lancaster high, McArthur high, and Willis high make up the other units on the Red and Black exchange list.

More universities and high schools are to be added to this list later in the school term.

The papers received by the class are studied by the journalism department, after which they are placed in the library where they are available to the student body. William Ammer is acting in the capacity of exchange editor.

NO SENIOR BOOTH AT PUMPKIN SHOW

The Seniors, when they convened Monday, October 7, decided not to have a booth at the Pumpkin show.

At this meeting, over which Miss Mattinson and Mr. Reger presided, many points concerning the cost of erecting and maintenance of a booth were discussed. The need of a restaurant license and sales tax certificate was pointed out.

The final vote on the booth was 34 in favor and 42 against. The Senior advisor this year is Miss Mattinson.

BUILDING PROGRAM PLANS COMPLETED

Complete plans of how Circleville high school will appear when the proposed addition is completed have been disclosed and are ready for the approval of the voters.

When the proposed structure is completed it will extend to the present high school building to Corwin street where it will be joined with the Corwin street school.

The architecture of the addition will correspond exactly to that of the present buildings and will not in any way detract from the beauty of the structure.

With the completion of the building twin walks will lead from the street to the two Court street entrances.

There will also be two entrances on Corwin street. The new addition will combine the present buildings into one and will make a large three-story school to include all grades and a high school.

MANY JUNIORS ON GRID SQUAD

The juniors are well represented on the football squad by the following eighteen boys: David Adkins, Raymond Friece, Joseph Cook, Robert Denny, Raymond Francis, Robert Friece, Robert Funk, Millard Goode, Donald Henry.

Willard Hosler, Elmer Merriman, Richard Mills, George Montgomery, Hugh Montgomery, Joseph Smalley, Russell Weaver, Richard Weldon and Gayle Wolfe.

E. M. S. MEMBERS TO BE INITIATED

At the first meeting of the Epsilon Mu Sigma, Thursday, was decided that sixteen new members would be taken into the club at the next meeting.

The membership of the Epsilon Mu Sigma this year will consist of twenty-six seniors, juniors, and sophomores who received an average of ninety or above in English for the preceding year.

A discussion was held as to the type of program which is to be presented by this organization on December 2. It was later voted that plans for the program be postponed until the club's next meeting.

The E. M. S. will publish a scandal sheet at the end of the school term. The group is also planning an educational trip to places of interest in some nearby city.

Jessie Dresbach was elected vice president of the organization by unanimous vote of the members. Other officers for the ensuing year include William Ammer, president and Ann Denman, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Hitler is the advisor of this organization.

BLACK SHIRTS GAIN GREAT POPULARITY

The past week at C. H. S. has reminded one of the Fascist regime in Italy, the only thing lacking being Benito Mussolini.

The appearance of approximately thirty boys clad in shirts of the blackest hue aroused the suspicion of several of the school's best "G" men, who as yet have uncovered no incriminating evidence.

Chief of the C. H. S. detective bureau, Captain Morton Reichelderfer, has advised the student body not to worry; that if the black shirts start any war with him and his squad of alert "st pigeons" will promptly take them into custody.

Flash: We are informed by the latest news bulletin that these "blackshirts" are only senior class "Stooge" members.

E. M. S. TO INITIATE 17 NEW MEMBERS

At the E. M. S. meeting Thursday, it was decided to have the initiation of the 17 new members on October 14 at the high school building.

The refreshment committee for this meeting includes Ann Denman, Jessie Dresbach, Alice Griner, and Mary Ellen Maxey. Jessie Dresbach was chosen vice-president to complete the list of officers for this year.

It was decided to hold all the meetings at the school this year instead of at the members' homes. The night for meeting has not been set.

SCHOLASTIC TAKEN BY WATSON CLASS

This year the members of Miss Watson's Senior English class will gain subscribe for the "Scholastic." The seniors will use this magazine in connection with their class work.

The "Scholastic" is essentially a high school magazine and is published weekly by the Scholastic Corporation in Pittsburgh.

A free subscription to any one of the following magazines will be sent to the high school library along with every ten subscriptions to "Scholastic": Atlantic Monthly, Harpers, Scribners, Popular Mechanics, and several others.

Yet all the time all of us are revealing to the world some characteristic, some fruit that bears witness to our inner life. For what we are within, we are on the outside. SPIRITUAL STRENGTH
Walter W. Head, chairman of the National committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery, has said, "But for the church, myriads of people would go thirsty even though they stand on the banks of sparkling brooks; but for the church, myriads of people would go hungry even though their granaries are filled to overflowing and their boards groan under the abundance of plenty."
The church program is predicated upon the conviction that man is a spiritual as well as a physical and mental being and that he will never live fully and completely until he feeds his spiritual nature as well as he does his physical and mental make-up. Bible reading, daily prayer and attendance at church services are essential elements in the creation of spiritual values. Spiritual strength is created only when we adopt this program and make it effective in our individual lives. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

The Story of Jeremiah

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
Scripture—Jer. 1:1-10; 6:10, 11; 8:18; 26:1-24; chapters 36, 37, 38.

Jeremiah, the prophet, ministered during the reigns of Judah's last five kings. He is called "the weeping prophet" for his warnings and tears over the nation's sin and coming destruction in the Babylonian captivity.
The wicked King Jehoiakim took one of Jeremiah's warning messages and cut it into pieces with his knife, and burned it in the fire. But at God's command Jeremiah rewrote the message and added more severe words of judgment.
Zedekiah, another wicked king whom Jeremiah rebuked, had the prophet imprisoned in a deep, muddy pit where he was left to die. However, the prophet was later lifted out but still kept imprisoned until the city was destroyed.
When the Babylonian king took the city he slew King Zedekiah's sons, then put out the king's eyes and carried him a captive to Babylon. Thus, all that Jeremiah had warned came to pass.

World Religious News

A world conference of all non-Roman churches is to be held in Oxford, England, July 15-25, 1937. The delegation will be limited to three hundred, altho one hundred additional members who are to be selected from the world field. The American continent will have 85 delegates. This will be one of the most important gatherings that the Church has convened in many years.

Dr. Kagawa is due to visit the United States early next year. The Japanese government is said to have asked him to make visits as a friendly ambassador to England, the United States and other countries.

Representatives of the Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal Church South and the Methodist Protestant churches are attempting to heal the breach in their relationships caused by the slavery issue in 1843. If the union of these groups is accomplished, the new organization will have 35,000 churches, 29,000 ordained ministers and 20,000 local preachers. The membership would total approximately 7,650,000 with a property investment of $731,000,000 and an operating budget of approximately $100,000,000 annually.

Seven denominations are cooperating in the support of an interdenominational religious program at Grand Coulee at the site of the Grand Coulee Dam in the state of Washington. This support provides for a religious worker and helps toward the erection of a chapel building. The work will employ about four thousand men and will take between five and ten years to build. The Rev. Roy H. Murray has been appointed by the Washington Council of Churches and Christian Education for this work.

Church Forum

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN PROJECT AND WHAT ARE SOME DEFINITE PROJECTS IN WHICH AN INDIVIDUAL CAN ENGAGE IN FURTHERING THE WORK OF THE CHURCH?

A project is a Christian enterprise intended to render a useful Kingdom service and in which all concerned may cooperate. It is cooperative, constructive, consecrated in spirit, and Christian in character. It not only benefits others but reacts favorably upon those who participate. Some projects in which one may engage are: Accepting the responsibility to conduct a local leadership training school or teaching in the church school; Supervising a Boy or Girl Scout troop or similar organization; Sharing in the leadership of a week-day school of Christian education; According the responsibility to raise funds for better musical equipment, piano or other instruments; Contribute to the support of one or more missionaries or students in college; taking the responsibility for improving the church grounds and property and beautifying it in every way possible.

Trailer Following Ball-Carrier, Ready to Grab Lateral Pass, Gives Defense Another Problem

By HARRY KIPKE

Football Coach, University of Michigan

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 12.—A new term has come into football parlance in the last few years and you will hear it frequently from now on. In the old game a coach had his line plungers, blockers, tacklers, punters, drop kickers and place kickers. Then along came the forward passing game and he added to his roster passers and receivers. Now the lateral is in vogue and a new functionary has come into the picture—the trailer.

He is the lad who tags along with the ball carrier, running out toward the sideline from him and a little to his rear. He is the man who is ready to take a lateral pass when the traffic up in front gets a bit too congested. Sometimes he isn't all alone in his trailing, for two or three trailers can often be even more dangerous than one, and a whole lot of lateral is more efficient than a single toss.

Gives Defense More Work. This trailer is a disconcerting kind of person. He's troublesome even if he keeps on trailing. He worries the opposition. If the opposition at the particular point of attack happens to be a single tackler, that trailer is plumb poison. If said tackler moves in on the carrier, the ball totter just tosses back to the trailer and the latter is off goalward. In other words, this trailer fellow makes it absolutely necessary for a whole lot of tacklers to get in front of the ball carrier and to set up a barrage of hostility. And the more trailers there are, the more tacklers are needed.

A defensive halfback, moving up to stop a flank attack, used to be faced with just one job. Now he has to figure out whether or not there's a trailer around, who he is and what will happen if that trailer becomes a ball totter. The same thing happens on forward passes. The defense no longer can converge on the receiver—there's apt to be a trailer coming up on the scene most any old time.

From all of which, you can understand just what is meant when coaches begin worrying about lateral passes. They aren't so concerned about the lateral itself because it has to be a backward toss and it isn't the easiest kind of a play to handle. But it's the threat that the lateral pass offers that makes the thing so pesky.

Many coaches are succeeding with trailers, to be sure. But they are particularly blessed with some geniuses who can hang on to the ball. In its two games last Saturday with St. Lawrence and Amherst colleges, the Colgate team handled trailers perfectly time after time. On more than one play as many as five Colgate men handled the ball as it was tossed back and forth, thoroughly befuddling the defense.

DAD'S DAY

Dads will have their day at the high school Nov. 1 when what is expected to become an annual "Dad's Day" will be staged. The father of every boy on the squad will be admitted to the game free that day by identifying himself; will be permitted to go in the dressing room, watch his boy get into his pads and headgear, listen to Coach Dick Landrum give the boys their pre-game instructions, and sit beside them on the bench.

Marysville Is Foe

Each dad will wear, pinned on the back of his coat, the number carried on the jersey of his football playing son—Marysville, coached by inimitable Jerry Kingsmore, will be the Red and Black foe that day in a Central Buckeye game.

Strong County Teams

There are going to be a lot of good basketball teams in the Pickaway-co circuit this year; boys, we mean. Derby-Twp., defending champion, has a new coach, Leonard Hill, and lost a lot of material so may be out of the race for honors; New Holland has Everett Landman, Chuck Ater and Herb Dennis; Ashville retains Chuck Young, Gregg, Steinbrook and several others, losing Scates; Walnut loses Dunkel and Kaiser, the backbones of its fine team; Deer Creek, Jackson, Washington, Salter Creek, Perry, Muhlenberg, and Monroe are unknown quantities. From Commercial Point, the town that so unceremoniously bumped New Holland in last spring's tourney, comes reports that the Scioto-Twp. crew will be tough. A new coach, Raymond Hackney, is in charge and reports have it that he has a couple of six footers and some smaller boys who are tough. Wilson, a sophomore, will play center; he has Finch and Rasor, a pair of sweet guards who score often; he lost Hoover and Gulick, last year's forwards, but "Smokie" Williams, diminutive pride of Dallas Williams, as an offensive threat. WATCH SCIOTO-TWP. The season open Nov. 15 with standstills to be kept of all games and cups to be presented to boys and girls by The Herald to be fought for.

Chillicothe dedicated its new stadium with a 20-6 victory over Wilmington, conqueror of Columbus South high.

The seventh annual silver cup matches of the Legion Pistol and Rifle club will be held at the City park range in Chillicothe Saturday and Sunday.

Many notables of small bore rifle ranges will take part in the events. Many Chillicothe merchants are offering trophies.

The pistol matches will be held on Sunday, Oct. 26, and the rifle events are to any calibre pistol.

Fumbles Give Delaware Ball in Dangerous Territory; Tigers Drives Stopped

Although they outplayed the Delaware team through nearly all the second half and several times threatened the goal line, the Tigers lost their Central Buckeye league game Friday in the college town by a 25-0 score.

A major casualty resulted when Bob Fickardt, lineman, suffered a broken collar-bone. He will be out for the season.

The Tigers were victims of bad breaks in the first half, a high pass from center giving the ball to the Delaware team in scoring position for their first touchdown. A fumble again gave the Delaware outfit the ball in midfield from which point they marched for their second goal. The third came after a Delaware drive was stopped when the Tigers recovered a fumble, only to delay the score which came on a lateral and a drive by Cartwright.

The half ended 19-0.

Stopped on Six

In the third session the Tigers made a determined drive for the goal only to lose the ball on downs on the 6-yard stripe. Taking the ball back down the field in another attempt, the Tigers lost it on an interception.

Another fumble after an exchange of punts gave the ball to Chuck Taylor's boys on the 18-yard stripe from which point B u r c h circled an end for the score.

The play of John Griffith, who has been favoring a bad shoulder, was enlightening. He got a lot of tackles and many gains. Jenkins and Henry also did well in the backfield while the line worked harder than it has this year. The breaks of the game caused the Delaware scoring on nearly every occasion.

Delaware made 11 first downs and the Tigers tallied 7.

SUNDAY DRIVERS GIVEN WARNING

Sunday can very well be called the day of mad motoring.

It is no wonder that Sunday is the peak day for accidents. First of all, it is also the peak day for the volume of traffic. All day long of a Sunday, motorists go speeding along the highways as if they were racing to meet their end, as often enough they do. Drivers refuse to take heed of the heavy flow of traffic—and highways are made Highways of Death.

Once known as the day of rest, Sunday is fast gaining for itself the reputation of the day of eternal rest.

If you drive on Sunday and want to stay alive—or at least escape injury—observe these safety rules:

First: Keep your attention concentrated on your driving. Know as much as possible what is going on ahead, behind and beside you.

Second: Follow as straight a course as possible.

Third: See that you leave a safe stopping distance between your car and the one ahead.

Fourth: Use hand signals to supplement your stop light.

Fifth: Have your car under perfect control when approaching an intersection.

Sixth: Don't insist on right-of-way.
